In the last decade,

47 CORPORATIONS have moved their address overseas to pay less U.S. TAXES

Corporate Tax Inversion is an Unpatriotic Tax Loophole

from Label Letter

AFL-CIO President Richard Trumka so classified this tax loophole as unpatriotic as should all workers and tax payers in America. He stated that a 2004 law passed by Congress (guess which political party was in total control of congress and the presidency) meant to prevent corporate inversion allows corporations to get around the law by merging with a foreign company.

A recent editorial in the Huffington Post also had Trumka saying, “the real problem is that many of these so-called U.S. corporations want to keep dictating our economic policies and dominating our politics, yet they have less and less loyalty to the people who actually live and work in America. They want to keep benefiting from all the things our government does for them so they can make profits - our legal system to protect their investments and patents, our education and training system to train their workers, our transportation system to get their products to market, our federally sponsored research, our military - but they want the rest of us to front their share of the bill.”

The Obama administration has made the case for legislation that would retroactively strip the tax advantages away from many of the year’s biggest mergers and acquisitions.

Mary J. Mazur, the Treasury Department’s assistant secretary for tax policy, made the case that any new laws targeting inversions should be backdated to May 2014, potentially affecting a number of multibillion-dollar deals.

End-of-Life Talks

Remember how the reactionaries attacked the Affordable Care Act (ObamaCare) for including coverage to pay health care providers when their doctors consulted with their patients about end-of-life care.

Well those reactionaries got this provision dropped from the Affordable Care Act but now some private insurers, like Cambia, Aetna and Highmark, among others cover such talks.

Even Medicare could decide this fall to approve a request from the American Medical Association to cover such talks.

Why did the reactionaries take such a position and use the code word of death panels? They simply oppose anything which proposed by President Obama and are only obstructionist with no plan.

Part D doughnut hole keeps shrinking

(from November 2014 AARP Bulletin)

In 2015 citizens on Medicare get more discounts in the drug coverage ... 55 percent off the cost of brand name and 35 percent off generics. Medicare officials say that shrinking the gap, a result of the 2010 Affordable Care Act, has already saved 8.3 million enrollees more than $12 billion.

(editor: yet reactionaries want to repeal Obamacare?)

Dear Mr. Curler:

Thank you for contacting me about Trade Promotion Authority (TPA). I appreciate you taking the time to write about this important issue.

In March of 2013, the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative announced its intention to seek TPA (also known as fast-track) for congressional consideration of free trade agreements currently under negotiation. TPA prohibits amendments from being offered to trade agreements while being debated on the floor of the U.S. Senate in order to expedite their approval process.

I appreciate knowing of your concerns with the TPA. I strongly oppose renewing the TPA in its current form and believe it must be replaced with an approval process consistent with the constitutional role of Congress in trade agreements. For this reason, I joined a dozen of my colleagues in the Senate in sending a letter to Majority Leader Reid expressing our opposition to TPA.

For too long our trade policies have unfairly hurt Wisconsin manufacturers, the backbone of our Made in Wisconsin economy. I know that if we give our workers a fair shot and a level playing field, they can compete with anyone. Any new trade agreement should protect manufactures in our state and around the country, as well as include provisions that promote our nation's competitiveness.

For this reason, I cosponsored the Level the Playing Field in Global Trade Act, S. 1801, to crack down on unfair trade practices that undercut Wisconsin manufacturers. This legislation would ensure that sub-standard wages as well as a lack of workplace safety practices and environmental protections are considered unfair subsidies by foreign countries when calculating American duties intended to offset cheating. S. 1801 is currently awaiting action in the Senate Finance Committee.

Please know that I will keep your concerns in mind as the Senate debates upcoming trade legislation.

Once again, thank you for contacting my office. It is important for me to hear from the people of Wisconsin on the issues, thoughts and concerns that matter most to you. If I can be of further assistance, please visit my website at www.baldwin.senate.gov for information on how to contact my office.

Sincerely,

Tammy Baldwin

Dear Mr. Curlier,

Thank you for taking time and reaching out to me. As your Congressman, I work for you, so nothing is more important to me than your issues, concerns, and opinions, and those of your neighbors. Knowing what you think and need helps me represent you better in Washington.

Also, thank you for sharing your thoughts regarding the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) free trade agreement. The TPP is a proposed free trade agreement among the United States and eleven other nations: Japan, Australia, Brunei, Canada, Chile, Malaysia, Mexico, New Zealand, Peru, Singapore, and Vietnam. In early April, the U.S. Trade Representative announced that the U.S. and Japan had reached an agreement for Japan to join the TPP, adding a large trade market and new challenges to the negotiations. Over a dozen rounds of negotiations have been held over the past three years with the goal of reducing and eliminating most quotas, tariffs, and non-tariff barriers between these countries. Although the U.S. already has existing free trade agreements with many of these nations, including Canada and Mexico through the North American Free Trade Agreement, the TPP would expand on these agreements to ensure greater access to foreign markets.

Many U.S. exports continue to be blocked by unfair trade protections imposed by these countries. This free trade agreement will hopefully result in the removal of these barriers, allowing us to expand our export markets and begin to even the playing field with our competitors, while growing our economy here at home. As the TPP negotiations continue, and as this issue is brought before me in the House of Representatives, please know that I will keep your thoughts in mind and will continue to fight for the interests of Central, Western and Northern Wisconsin.

Thank you again for your thoughts on this issue. I consider it an honor and privilege to represent you in the U.S. Congress. Please don't hesitate to e-mail or call with any other questions or concerns you may have.

Sincerely,

Sean P. Duffy
Member of Congress

EMPOWERING YOUTH IN CRISIS TO MAKE POSITIVE LIFE CHOICES.

For many young people, maps to guide them to a successful future are often difficult to find. Choosing the right path is a challenge. Wrong turns happen. Detours are not uncommon.

For youth confronted by crisis and trauma, it can seem like no one cares and that there are few role models to show them the way. At Pathfinders, we empower youth and young adults by providing them with emotional support, resources for basic needs, and tangible tools for a fresh start. Our team of 70 employees and over 120 volunteers work together to reassure them that they matter, so that they can change the direction of their lives.

We understand that real change, especially for youth in crisis, starts from within.

President Obama Unveils Executive Action on Immigration

President Barack Obama unveiled sweeping Executive Actions Thursday night, “aimed at shielding as many as 5 million undocumented immigrants from deportation and granting work permits to some, setting off a firestorm of Republican vows to stop the president in his tracks,” Politico reported.

In a joint statement, Alliance President Barbara J. East-erling and Executive Director Richard Fiesta said in re-sponse, “Not only would President Obama’s executive action protect 5 to 8 million aspiring Americans from de-portation and extend the Dream Act, it would also help strengthen the Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds. According to the Center for American Progress, if 85% of undocumented workers were to pay Social Security pay-roll taxes, those workers would add $1.2 trillion into the Social Security Trust Fund during the 36 years when So-cial Security will be most affected by Baby Boomers’ re-tirements.” (<http://tinyurl.com/qctsili>)

“Furthermore, if 85% of undocumented workers con-tributed to Medicare, they would pay $253 billion into the Medicare Trust Fund over 20 years (<http://tinyurl.com/ncrj9vy>).” Read the full statement at <http://tinyurl.com/oqjt8mq>. Commonwealth Fund Study: Older Americans are Sicker than Counterparts Abroad

A survey of people 65-and-older in 11 countries finds that U.S. older adults are sicker than their counterparts abroad, as well as the most likely to have problems paying their medical bills and getting needed health care. Accord-ing to the Commonwealth Fund, U.S. adults also reported difficulty getting care in a timely fashion and using emer-gency departments for issues that a primary care physician could treat. Among the bright spots for the United States: having a care plan for chronic illness, and planning for end-of-life care. More at <http://tinyurl.com/mh7yqwh>.
